

DIXON BUILDERS URGE RESTORED BUILDING CODE

Contractors Attend City Council Meeting Here Last Night

Several Dixon contractors attended last evening's weekly meeting of the city council and appealed for re-enactment of the building code in Dixon for the protection of builders. Mark D. Smith was the principal spokesman for the contractors and briefly outlined the adoption of a code under which the administration of Mayor Frank D. Palmer, which had been drafted by Charles McCorry and himself after careful consideration of codes in several cities the size of Dixon.

McCorry was the first inspector under the Dixon code, the speaker related, and proved able. He received very little co-operation on the part of the city council members and resigned, to be succeeded by another, whom Mr. Smith declared, was unfit for the position.

"Dozens of buildings and houses in Dixon are unsafely constructed, unsanitary from the standpoint of plumbing and fire hazards, in the method of electric wiring," he told the council.

Measure Rescinded

"The contractors of the city are not directly benefited," he continued, "but are desirous of maintaining a high quality of construction. The original code was established at the request of the members of the buildings trades, who paid for its publication. At the first meeting of the council under Mayor George C. Dixon's administration and after the code had been made a campaign issue, the measure was rescinded entirely.

"The city of Dixon was never injured by the enactment of the code. The contractors' organization paid for the entire publication after the city had agreed to pay half the cost, and the city benefited from the permits issued. It was a protection for the public against the building of 'shoddy' structures and 'dog houses.'

Health Menaces

Otto Witzel, plumbing contractor, cited numerous instances where improper installation of plumbing in local residence structures was a menace to the public health of the residents and informed the council that in the near future a law requiring state inspection of all plumbing installations would become effective.

William J. Cahill, electrical contractor, cited conditions in public buildings, where he stated, the electric wiring service was unsafe.

Herbert Smith and N. H. Jensen also expressed their desire to the council to have the building code made effective in Dixon, with some possible minor changes.

Mayor Slothower informed the contractors that a city zoning ordinance was now in the process of construction and assured the representatives that the commission would consider their request.

An ordinance amending certain sections of the ordinance pertaining to city police officers, increasing the number of officers from six to seven and regulating the hours of duty of a motorcycle police officer, was passed.

Another ordinance providing for the enlargement of the storm drain on Ottawa avenue south of Seventh street, by removing the present rip-rap and constructing reinforced cement replacement at an estimated cost of $800 to be paid from the public benefit fund, was passed.

Three applications for soft drink licenses were allowed by the council.

Cokeville, Wyo. (AP)—Trailed her den after she had worried sheep near here for years, a she-coyote apparently realized hunters had set traps across the mouth of the cave in such a way that she couldn't leave without being caught.

She chose to stay in and starve to death.

Wet Welcome

Springfield, Ill., May 7—(AP)—No welcoming committee met Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago today as he went to the executive mansion to ask Governor Horner for an additional $16,000,000 in 1938 for unemployment relief funds.

Getting off the train alone in a heavy shower, Kelly was greeted only by newspapermen. A photographer gave him a ride to the executive mansion.

It was the first time Horner and Kelly, Democratic arch rivals, had conferred in months.

The mayor said Chicago needs about $14,000,000 in relief funds to carry it over the next eight months, in addition to the major share of the $2,900,000 monthly appropriation now going to the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission. He expressed the opinion the state should bear the burden.

UNKNOWN GIRL ENDS HER LIFE WITH POISON

New York, May 7—(AP)—Police sought identification today of a pretty young blonde who swallowed fatal poison in a Midtown bus terminal last night after penning a suicide note signed "The Little Girl in Grey."

The message, addressed "To Whom This May Concern," told of running away from home with a boy at the age of 14 and her subsequent downfall.

Traffic Paralyzed

Port traffic at Shanghai was paralyzed this morning when the Chinese customs staff temporarily ceased clearing ships after the reformed Chinese government, set up by the Japanese at Nanking, announced it was taking charge of its customs.

"Please, when I die, print this in hopes it may help some other girl," it said, in part.

"If it helps a girl who has had even the first thought of leaving home, then I have not done this in vain."

"There is hardly a state in the east I have not been in, and I am known and recognized as a woman with a bad reputation, who would take your money and cut your throat without a moment's hesitation.

"I am broke, hungry (I haven't had a meal in three days), no place to sleep; so I took my last money to buy this paper and poison.

"I am leaving no name or address. Just when I am buried (I don't really care whether I am or not) I want people not to pity me to scorn, just say:

"She was at least intelligent enough to know that when she reached the bottom she had sense enough to know she really couldn't get up."

The note ended with a farewell to her mother, saying "You will have no more heartaches and grieving to do over an erring daughter."

Enraged Mules Fatally Mauled Illinois Farmer

Jacksonville, Ill., May 7.—(AP)—Two enraged mules caused the death last night of George D. Taylor, 49-year-old farmer.

One of the animals bolted while Taylor was leading it to water. His right wrist twisted tightly in the halter, Taylor was dragged several times across a pasture.

The other mule snapped and kicked at the helpless farmer.

Three neighboring farmers—Howard and James Rawlings and Floyd Crowe—were attracted by screams from Taylor's sister, Dorothy, subdued the mules and released the victim's body. Taylor's skull was fractured.

3000 CHINESE GUERRILLAS IN SUDDEN ATTACK

Threaten To Wipe Out Japanese Garrison At Nantungchow

BULLETIN

Tokyo, May 7—(AP)—Foreign minister Koki Hirota called on the Japanese people today to prepare for "possible extreme personal financial sacrifices" to achieve victory in the Chinese war. He added that "no optimistic view of the future is warranted."

Shanghai, May 7—(AP)—Three thousand Chinese guerrilla troops, fighting recklessly in the streets of Nantungchow, threatened today to annihilate the Japanese garrison of that supply base on the north bank of the Yangtze river, 60 miles north of Shanghai.

Japanese reinforcements were rushed from Shanghai in a desperate effort to save the decimated garrison and retain possession of the important base town.

The loss of Nantungchow would cut supply and communication lines serving a Japanese army of 10,000 men operating in north Kiangsu province.

Foreigners arriving from Yangtze ports said scores of Chinese civilians already had been killed and hundreds were hiding in terror while hand-to-hand fighting raged inside the walls of Nantungchow.

"Please, when I die, print this in hopes it may help some other girl," it said, in part.

THE ANNUAL WORRY

Summer is here.

The village of Great Neck, N. Y., has passed an ordinance forbidding persons over 15 to go shopping in their swimming suits.

Summer certainly came early this year. In a way, it's nice, and what's referred to by that is not in this instance the weather but the business of getting the oratory about bathers over with early in the season. It's so much easier to bear all the sound and fury when the weather is comparatively cool.

It's to be hoped that the rest of the country follows the lead of Great Neck in rushing the season just as quickly as it can. Do it now. Get it all decided about whether the male may or may not bare his chest, whether the female may or may not expose a strip of her person around the middle, and just how far from the beach either may stray without changing into street wear.

There are so many other things to worry about these days.

NOT EXACTLY ROOSEVELT LUCK

When the NRA was held unconstitutional by a unanimous vote of the Supreme Court of the United States, President Roosevelt made predictions of dire things that would follow.

Instead of the predictions coming true, business began to pick up as a coincidence with the riddance of NRA.

When the business tide was rising, the president smiled and said, "We planned it that way, and don't let anyone tell you anything different."

Just as that saying had permeated the outlying precincts of the voting world, business went on a slippery slide, the result of C. I. O. violence, refusal of the government to protect United States mail from C. I. O. interference, the activity of the national labor relations board, which has been harrassing business by taking the side of the C. I. O. in its disorderly conduct, the assault upon the supreme court, the reorganization bill, and the punitive tax on undistributed profits which corporations customarily try to have for a rainy day.

SUPERLATIVES OVERWORKED.

During the present war in China and the strife in Spain war correspondents have been in the habit of using superlative terms to describe the action, disregarding somewhat the facts of history.

During the last few weeks, for instance, we have heard of decisive battles without being able to see the results; the "greatest barrage of history," "the most terrific air combat ever seen," and such terms.

This might be true in regard to the personal experiences of some of the writers, but history goes back farther than that. None of the actions in the far east nor in Spain, as examined in the light of actual statistics, can compare as yet with that awful struggle known as the World War.

Neither Toledo nor Shanghai can compare, in number of men killed, with Verdun; no barrage laid down since 1918 can compare in either cost or intensity with the terrific bombardment the British effected at Passchendaele. What artillery action in either Spain or China has cost one side alone the staggering sum of one billion dollars? Neither Tokio nor Rome nor either side in the Spanish fight could afford such an outlay.

In regard to atrocities we are also bombarded with superlatives. One writer states that never in history have women, children and other non-combatants been subjected to punishment such as prevails today in Spain. That simply is not true. "Never" is an all-inclusive term, and it includes the thousands of years when military leaders considered it quite the proper thing to wipe out the enemy, root and branch, as they went along. Even a casual reading of the old testament will disclose that on occasion it was stylish to slaughter not only the humans among the enemy, but the livestock as well.

Even we Americans, rooted in gentility and established in a tradition of mercy, have something to live down. Here is a description of a battlefield:

"It was a terrible and horrible sight to see the women and children lying in groups, dead. Some of the young girls wrapped their heads in their shawls and buried their faces in their hands. I suppose they did that so they would not see the soldiers come up to shoot them. At one place there were two little children, one about a year old, and about thirty yards away from them a woman lay on her face, dead. These were away from the camp about an eighth of a mile. In front of the tents, which were in a semi-circle, lay most of the men. . . . This was where the Indians were ordered to hold a council with the whites."

The description thus given was not of a battlefield after the onward sweep of Franco or the Japanese. The dead had been killed by American soldiers at the Battle of Wounded Knee, a mere skirmish started by an excited medicine man at what was to have been a parley about sending Indians to a reservation.

It was the answer of the white soldiers, but not of the white government, to the Custer massacre.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

CHAPTER 47

Uprooting the Boxwood
In that first breathless second when Judith looked up to see Reuben standing beside her, he had never seemed further away. She attempted to rise to her feet. Reuben held out a steady hand. The touch of his fingers sent blood hurrying through Judith's veins, fire to her cheeks.

"Judith," his voice was warm and even. "I'm sorry about Jim."

Of course, that was why he had come. He was being kind. Judith's pride made a last bid for recognition, then faltered before a terrible longing to know the truth.

"You got my letter?"

"No." Reuben took a step forward. He seemed to tower above her, a brown, controlled stranger. Then he didn't know how she loved him. All strength deserted her.

Suddenly Reuben's angry, parting words thundered in her ears. "If you go now you need never try to come back." It seemed hopeless to try to bridge the chasm that separated them. She might have known it was too late.

Her words sounded strained, uneven, as if she were forcing conversation with a casual acquaintance. "How did you get here?"

"Cissy brought me," smoothly, without trace of feeling.

Judith's knees weakened. "If you go now you need never try to come back." Life was a one way street . . . you could never go back.

"Shall we go into the house," Reuben was saying. "You must have plans to discuss with me."

Judith couldn't bear it any longer. Humiliation, trampled pride, anything was better than this. An irrepressible sob broke from her. Her hands stretched out.

"Reuben . . . on Reuben, can't you see?"

He couldn't yet believe what he wanted with all his heart to believe. Struggling with the longing to crush her in his arms was the desire for self-protection. He would not be hurt again. This time he must be sure.

"Judith!" Reuben's heart missed a beat as he met her eyes—ringed with black shadows as they had been the night the twins were born. She was thinner, too—Judith—I came half way across the world."

The wall crumbled. In an instant he was cupping her tragic face in tender hands. "Tell me I've found you, Judith. Tell me you are glad to see me?"

She could not tell him. But she went into his arms—protective, gentle, strong. Against his heart she whispered: "I've missed you so, I love you so!" The ache that was in her heart burst tears that had been dammed against her eyeballs. Reuben kissed them away.

May Day

small Judy Oliver and sturdy young

Jim sailed paper boats in the

If her heart was sore today there was a soft singing in it too. She

Dixonite's Mother Enjoys Cape Town

Mrs. Rudolph Marloth of Cape Town, South Africa has visited in Dixon at the home of her son Werner Marloth and has many friends here who will be interested in her activities.

Mrs. Marloth figures prominently in the social life of the African city and accounts of her activities appear frequently in the Cape Times, newspaper of the community.

On March 17 Mrs. Marloth attended the last official garden party of the season given by the Administrator and Mrs. J. H. Conradi at which the Governor-General and Lady Duncan were honored guests.

Numerous accounts of Mrs. Marloth's trips and parties appear not only in the newspapers but also in the magazines.

From the Pictorial one account reads: "Mrs. Rudolph Marloth is having a perfect spate of entertaining during the past month. She was responsible for three large parties in succession, starting with a tea party for the passengers of the Franconia and finishing with her own birthday celebrations."

Another article reads: "Mrs. Marloth is off to the Transvaal on Saturday to visit her son, Dr. Raymond Marloth, on the governmental experimental farm at Nelspruit." In the same story appears an item concerning Werner Marloth of Dixon, her son: "Mrs. Marloth's eldest son, Werner, is one that settled in the United States, and rose from a junior clerk to being the auditor of one of the biggest companies in the state of Illinois."

YACOB THE HIPPO
 GROWS OLD AT ZOO

Milwaukee—(AP)—Yacob, hippopotamus at the Washington park zoo, is three years over the average life span of 25 years.

In the zoo a quarter century, he was imported from Germany after public subscription paid his $2,200 cost. Nameless and homesick, he sulked at the bottom of his tank.

Carl Hagenbeck, noted German animal trainer of the day, visited him.

"Yacob, komm 'aus," Hagenbeck commanded, and the hippo emerged, snorting. He has been
 "Yacob" ever since.

"101" RANCH WAGONS
 GO TO TEXAS

Oklahoma City—(AP)—The wagons of the 101 Ranch "Wild West" show once again are on the move but this time the calliope is silent and the band wagon is empty.

A Fort Worth, Tex., carnival has purchased them. They were stored at the ranch after the 101 show, once world famed, struck financial shoals.

The call notes of the cassowary can be heard two miles.

GOOD THOUGHTS

Man's noblest task is to help others by his best means and powers.

—Sophocles.

Make channels for the streams of Love, Where they may broadly run; And Love has overflowing streams, To fill them every one....

For we must share, if we would keep That blessing from above; Ceasing to give we cease to have, Such is the law of Love.

—Richard Trench

Kindness does not consist in gifts, but in gentleness and generosity of spirit.

—Samuel Smiles

Giving does not impoverish us in the service of our Maker, neither does withholding enrich us.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.

—II Corinthians 9: 9.

DIXON METHODIST CHURCH

Howard P. Buxton, Minister

A souvenir bulletin in memory of the mother of Methodism, Susanna Wesley, will be distributed Sunday morning at the Dixon Methodist church at the Sunday morning church service. A sufficient number will be printed so that every worshipper may have one. The minister will preach a sermon appropriate for the day. The three choirs will have a part in the service. The senior choir under the direction of Crawford Thomas will sing an anthem, "A Mother's Day Prayer". The Treble Clef choir under the direction of Marie Worley will sing "Spirit Divine" by Holden. The Junior choir will sing the prayer response. A nursery is maintained at the church hour for small children. A special offertory, "Kamen-Ostrow" by Rubenstein for organ and piano will be played by Crawford Thomas and Mrs. R. A. Joslyn.

Christ was not warning outsiders when He said, "Beware lest ye cause one of these little ones to stumble." It would be well perhaps for us to uncover some common church diseases and asks frankly, "Are we like that?"

Sometimes a group of people, absorbed in their own interests, will stand in a church entrance and completely block it. Is our parish, or any group, blocking the entry of the House of God?

—Forward, Day by Day.
